

WARRIOR MAMA

I always say, "Walk softly and carry a big binder!"

When I was advocating for my children who have special needs, I would always carry a binder full of all their medical diagnoses, doctor appointment notes, prior IEPs and more, with me whenever I met with any professional about my child's needs. And guess what, 9 times out of 10, I got what I wanted! The Warrior Mama binder is designed to help any parent with special needs children organize their children's paperwork to get better results for them. This topic will delve into the murky waters of what is involved in raising children with special needs and how to best succeed at advocating for them to help them achieve greater success in life.

KEY TAKEAWAYS:

- How to best organize your special needs children's paperwork (and why)
- How to advocate for your children in an IEP meeting
- Resources available to assist you in equipping your children with the best possible results

Learn more at
organize365.com/warriormama